Multimedia storytelling, marketing & creative production

Video • Editorial strategy • Civic storytelling • Creative operations • Audience engagement • Capacity building

I build multimedia storytelling programs for mission-driven organizations with complex work to explain. My strongest projects combine editorial judgment, trust-based interviewing, story coaching, video/audio production, audience strategy, and the systems needed to publish consistently across web, social, email, events, and internal channels.

Over 10+ years, I've led creative teams, produced documentary-style videos, launched social-first campaigns, built editorial workflows, and helped public-sector, higher education, nonprofit, and civic technology organizations tell stories that are clear, human, and useful.

Selected strengths: editorial strategy, creative direction, multimedia production, audience development, public-sector storytelling, social-first video, executive communications, accessibility, plain language, bilingual English/Spanish content, creative operations

Professional experience

Senior Digital Marketing Manager

Coforma | Remote | 2025–2026

Lead multimedia storytelling, content strategy, and creative production for a civic technology company working across public-sector digital transformation, healthcare, accessibility, public benefits, and responsible AI.

- Built and launched a lifecycle email program for 3,000+ subscribers, exceeding industry engagement benchmarks and creating a stronger foundation for ongoing audience development.
- Led public-facing storytelling across video, social, web, email, executive communications, internal communications, thought leadership, and impact reporting.
- Helped establish Coforma's annual impact reporting practice, turning a year-end reporting need into a repeatable multimedia system across web, accessible PDF, social, email, and video.
- Directed distributed video production with executives, subject matter experts, designers, researchers, engineers, delivery teams, and external partners across multiple time zones and review cycles.
- Led large live virtual events with hundreds of attendees, overseeing speaker preparation, audience experience planning, recording workflows, and polished post-event deliverables.
- Used SEO, analytics, email performance, social data, and audience behavior to shape editorial calendars, campaign priorities, distribution strategy, and content improvements.
- Supported responsible AI adoption in content research, drafting, translation review, and production workflows while protecting editorial quality, accessibility, and trust.

Coforma Values Spotlight Campaign

Created a social-first employer brand campaign that turned Coforma's company values into a more personal, employee-led story.

- Achieved 100% participation from selected employee voices, including VPs, C-suite leaders, and several people who were initially hesitant to be recorded.
- Proposed a voice-led format after identifying that human-centered social posts consistently outperformed more generic brand content.
- Built a low-pressure production process over Slack, giving participants control over takes, review, and final approval so they felt comfortable being represented publicly.
- Coached employees and leaders through a simple story framework focused on message, moment, audience, and takeaway, helping non-actors sound natural and grounded.
- Directed recording, audio cleanup, video editing, stakeholder review, proofreading, publishing, and rollout across LinkedIn.
- Pitched and produced a bilingual English/Spanish spotlight featuring a bilingual subject matter expert, adding a stronger layer of representation to the campaign.
- Created a repeatable social-first format combining employee quotes, recorded voiceover, branded visuals, motion design, and platform-specific copy.

Annual Impact Reporting Practice

Helped turn Coforma's impact reporting into a durable storytelling program rather than a one-time report.

- Researched peer and competitor reports across civic technology, philanthropy, digital services, and mission-driven consulting to shape the structure, tone, format, and distribution strategy.
 - Produced the 2025 video component, including scriptwriting, executive interviews, virtual recordings, in-person b-roll, sourced assets, and narrative structure.
 - Guided leaders and subject matter experts through interview preparation, helping them move from abstract organizational language to specific stories, stakes, and examples.
 - Coordinated content inputs from leadership, delivery teams, subject matter experts, writers, designers, and marketing stakeholders.
 - Delivered external social posts that performed above average, an internal video that was well received by staff and leadership, and an external video reused across multiple contexts.
 - Created a repeatable workflow for gathering stories, validating metrics, involving stakeholders, and publishing future reports more efficiently.

Digital Media Manager

Coforma | Remote | 2023–2025

Produced multimedia campaigns, social content, case studies, videos, event materials, and executive communications that helped explain complex public-sector technology work to government leaders, partners, practitioners, and broader civic audiences.

- Led campaign execution across LinkedIn, YouTube, Instagram, X, web, email, paid media, PR, video, and virtual event channels.
- Developed storylines from interviews with technical experts, designers, researchers, executives, and delivery teams, translating complex civic technology work into accessible public narratives.
- Produced written features, case studies, campaign copy, video scripts, social cutdowns, executive messaging, and internal communications content.
- Managed creative production schedules across writers, designers, leadership, vendors, and external partners, keeping projects moving without sacrificing quality.
- Built reporting systems for web, email, social, paid media, SEO, and video performance, then used those insights to improve content and distribution decisions.

- Supported award submissions and recognition efforts, including multimedia materials connected to accessibility, plain language, and workplace communications initiatives.

Long COVID Healthathon Public Engagement Campaign

A four-month public innovation campaign focused on improving the lives of people with Long COVID.

- Helped drive participation from 60+ teams, leading to 15 finalists and three funded winners.
- Developed audience engagement strategy across video, blogs, webinars, press releases, paid and organic social, YouTube, LinkedIn, Instagram, X, and virtual events.
- Managed several thousand dollars in paid media to support recruitment and public engagement.
- Coordinated client stakeholders, vendors, designers, product teams, project managers, and engineers around a sensitive and evolving public health topic.
- Supported virtual events from promotion and speaker coordination through recording and post-event content development.

Ragan HR Communicator Award Video

Produced a two-minute video for a successful Ragan Top Women in HR nomination.

- Turned existing footage from trainings, All Hands meetings, and internal events into a concise leadership story without requiring new interviews or additional production time.
- Found the strongest moments in a large archive of internal recordings and shaped them around a clear emotional arc.
- Helped elevate a Coforma leader whose work strengthened employee trust, manager support, and workplace communication.
- The featured leader was named an HR Communicator of the Year.

Creative Associate Director

School of Education, University of Wisconsin–Madison | Madison, WI | 2021–2023

Led creative strategy, multimedia storytelling, event communications, and digital production for one of UW–Madison’s largest academic units.

- Managed and mentored a multidisciplinary creative team of full-time staff and student creators across writing, design, video, photography, and digital publishing.
- Increased audience engagement by approximately 30% through stronger visual storytelling, platform-specific content, and more consistent editorial planning.
- Directed websites, videos, executive interviews, newsletters, social campaigns, event storytelling, internal communications, and institutional campaigns.
- Partnered with faculty, researchers, students, alumni, campus communicators, and university leadership to translate academic work into public-facing stories.
- Planned and produced video projects from concept and scripting through filming, editing, captioning, publishing, and distribution.
- Led virtual and hybrid event communications, including promotion, speaker preparation, recording, post-event editing, and follow-up content.
- Established editorial standards, accessibility practices, creative review processes, and production workflows that improved quality and consistency across channels.
- Co-founded communities of practice and internal conferences to improve collaboration, shared standards, and professional development.

Honor the Air, Land, and Water

Turned a campus art installation into a multimedia campaign for UW–Madison’s 175th anniversary.

- Expanded the project from a simple documentation opportunity into a full campaign with a documentary-style video, social cutdowns, photography, web content, earned media, and live-event promotion.
 - Conducted repeated interviews with artist John Hitchcock and student collaborator Kaylee Herrmann, shaping the story around art, place, movement, memory, Indigenous presence, and university history.
 - Used a trust-based interview process to help artists and collaborators explain the meaning behind the work in their own voice without flattening the cultural context.
 - Produced short-form vertical videos for YouTube Shorts, Instagram Reels, and TikTok-style distribution to build anticipation ahead of the live reveal event.
 - Collaborated with central campus communications and local media partners to extend the story beyond School of Education channels.
 - Helped audiences understand the cultural and artistic significance behind a public artwork they might otherwise have encountered only as a finished object.

Web Operations Manager & Consultant

School of Education, University of Wisconsin–Madison | Madison, WI | 2015–2021

Built and scaled digital publishing systems for a large academic web ecosystem.

- Managed operations across 45+ WordPress sites, including publishing governance, metadata strategy, accessibility practices, analytics, and contributor workflows.
 - Led the consolidation of more than a dozen websites into a unified publishing platform serving multiple academic units, centers, departments, and programs.
 - Trained more than 1,000 employees on digital publishing, accessibility, content strategy, and web best practices.
 - Developed scalable content systems for faculty, staff, researchers, communicators, and administrators.
 - Implemented analytics frameworks that informed editorial decisions, platform improvements, and long-term content strategy.
 - Worked closely with developers, designers, communicators, IT partners, faculty, and staff to improve usability, content quality, and maintainability.

Web & Digital Content Specialist

Madison Metropolitan School District | Madison, WI | 2014–2015

Supported web content, digital communications, visual storytelling, reporting, and public-facing information for a large public school district.

- Managed digital content for students, families, educators, staff, and community members.
 - Created and maintained web pages, communication materials, digital assets, and public information.
 - Supported data visualization and reporting for leadership and decision-makers.
 - Trained staff on digital tools, web publishing, and communication best practices.
